Age Charts and Time Charts 01

Age Chart (in years): Age Line and Year Line

The purpose of the Age Charts is for children to grasp how much more experience their parents have, and their grandparents have, by comparison with them, and to achieve this through visual comparison. Once the children can see how much experience adults have by comparison to them, they start to understand that parents know more than them.

This activity can be with children and parents / relatives / friends. Identify different family members and colour in the squares until the correct age is reached. Ask the children questions about what people know at different ages.

Age Chart: Year Line

Different family members find their year of birth, colour in the square and continue to current year.
